

93

Points

• Antonio Galloni
vinous
explore all things wine

Dark red cherries, mocha, smoke, new oak, tobacco and spices are some of the notes that flash out in the 2010 Brunello di Montalcino from Campogiovanni.

Fleshy and seductive on the palate, the 2010 possesses terrific depth, richness and volume, all in a round supple style that offers plenty of near and medium-term appeal.

This is an excellent choice for drinking over the next decade or so.

Antonio Galloni. Tasting date : February 2015